Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

Status

This office action is responsive to the amendment filed on March 18, 2004.

Rejection Under 35 U.S.C. 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1, 4 and 8-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ito (US 2002/0144186 A1) in view of Yada et al (6,697,958)

With regards to claim 4, Ito discloses a magnetic disk drive (fig.1 element 2) comprising:

A magnetic disk recorder for holding data in a plurality of data units (see fig.7 element 2); a first connection interface...; a control unit controlling the drive to execute a request from the host system, and a second interface as claimed (See figs. 1 and 2 and detailed description thereof); a first function of reproducing data units according to request (see fig. 10 S30 and fig.5); a third function ...indicating presence or absence of an error for each data unit (see fig. 5 element S1, fig.10 and disclosure) ; a fourth function of outputting a portion of reproduced data, remains of data and the error information in a serial manner (see fig. 10 element S31, fig.11 and disclosure thereof).

Ito further discloses function of retries but fails to disclose the function of limiting number of retries so that data can be transferred within a specified necessary time as recited in the claim.

Yada et al however, discloses such a capability (see for example abstract, co.13 line 45- col.14 line 14, col.11 line 40 to col.12 line 44 figs. 1, 5-7 and disclosure thereof).

Art Unit: 2651

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time this invention was made to modify the disclosure of Ito with the above teaching from Yada et al in order to provide a disk drive having a technique of executing retries of various operations within a period of time which allows the disk drive to continuously record/reproduce data while maintaining the data quality and reliability of the disk drive (see col.2 lines 36-41).

With regards to limitation recited in claim 10, see fig.11 and disclosure thereof in Ito; wherein continuous data transfer in a specified format is considered to be in serial manner.

With regards to claim 11, Ito discloses that the error information is a bit map (considered as block address along with number of bytes) see fig.7 and paragraph [0088] for example in Ito.

Claims 1 and 8-9 are drawn to the method of using the corresponding apparatus recited in claims 4 and 10-11 respectively. Therefore method claims 1 and 8-9 corresponds to apparatus claims 4 and 10-11 and are rejected for the same reasons of obviousness as used above.

Response to Remarks

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1, 4 and 8-11 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
